On this date CPSI [redacted] received an update from TBI Agent [redacted] regarding [redacted] preliminary autopsy. Agent [redacted] stated that he spoke with Dr. [redacted] who performed the autopsy on seven-month -old [redacted] he stated the preliminary results were negative internally for anything significant. Dr. [redacted] reported there were very small contusions or hemorrhages on the left side of [redacted] forehead, that he thought may be older however he will look microscopically to further evaluate. Dr. [redacted] reported he found no internal or intracranial hemorrhage, he reported "spotty" hemorrhages in the tissue located on the back of [redacted] head at the base of the scalp that could be from some sort of impact however it could also be some congestion that will take further evaluation, that the area was very congested and could be related to post mortem extravasation of blood, that it was difficult to determine at this time, Dr. [redacted] again stated he will look microscopically. Dr. [redacted] reported that there was not any significant internal or intracranial injuries that resulted from this area, he stated this could be from some positional or asphyxia that but not definitive at this time. Dr. [redacted] reported that the most disconcerting is the previous incident of over lay, but he would like to look at previous EMS records and DCS reports. Agent [redacted] asked Dr. [redacted] about a large area of swelling on [redacted] forehead that was observed prior to EMS leaving the scene, Dr. [redacted] stated he did not notice any abnormality of that area during the autopsy, Dr. [redacted] stated he believes it to have been congestion or possibly the way [redacted] was laying may have caused fluid to shift post mortem. Dr. [redacted] reported that when he reflected the scalp he did not see any hemorrhage. Dr. [redacted] reported nothing at this time shows obvious criminal activity, however he is waiting on toxicology and that may change his opinion. Dr. [redacted] reported based on the preliminary autopsy findings, there is nothing concerning, but will update the team should he find anything.

A meth pipe was found in the babysitters purse. A THC bong was in the residence on top of the fridge. The father reported he had taken Adderall given to him by someone else. A forensic interview was attempted to be scheduled for the 6yo sibling who was at school at the time of incident; however, the parents have obtained an attorney and are currently refusing to allow the interview to occur. The 6yo was interviewed on scene later in the day and reported DV between the parents including them yelling at hitting each other on the arm. He reported he has been slapped on the mouth by the father. leaving, at which time he appeared normal and was taking a bottle. At approximately 7:15am paternal cousins ([redacted] 1yo and [redacted] 3yo) were dropped off at family home by their mother [redacted] and were in the living room with their paternal uncle, [redacted] father. These children were also supposed to be in the care of the babysitter. After [redacted] mother left the home for work, she and the father argued that morning via text messaging over the quality of care and involvement the babysitter had with the children. The father was upset he was having to watch his nephews while the babysitter stayed in her room with [redacted] stating he needed to leave to tend to putting tires on a car. At approximately 10:45am the father reported he yelled at the babysitter and then exited the home; at which time he observed her lying on the bed possibly watching TV. He did not see [redacted] at that time. The babysitter stated she lied down to take a nap at 9:30am with [redacted] in the bed with her. [redacted] was placed asleep on his stomach with his head facing the right toward the wall and away from the babysitter. At approximately 11am the babysitter reported she woke, checked on the other two children in the living room, got a snack, and returned with it to the bedroom when she checked on [redacted] and found him unresponsive. The babysitter reported she shook [redacted] and then ran with him outside and screamed for the father for help. At this point 911 was called.

LE arrived on the scene at 11:27am and performed CPR on a truck tailgate while waiting for EMS, who arrived at 11:34am. LE completed interviews with the adults at the police department. The adults in the home were drug screened with both the father and babysitter testing positive for meth, which both denied using. The mother was negative for all substances. A meth pipe was found in the babysitters purse. A THC bong was in the residence on top of the fridge. The father reported he had taken Adderall given to him by someone else. A forensic interview was attempted to be scheduled for the 6yo sibling who was at school at the time of incident; however, the parents have obtained an attorney and are currently refusing to allow the interview to occur. The 6yo was interviewed on scene later in the day and reported DV between the parents including them yelling at hitting each other on the arm. He reported he has been slapped on the mouth by the father. He has been staying with the paternal uncle and maternal grandmother, with the grandmother also able to provide future childcare assistance if needed. The babysitter has moved out of the home. The parents of the fathers nephews have found other sources for childcare.

He thought they may be older, but will take a look microscopically, but there was not any internal or intracranial hemorrhage of any significance. He said there was also some spotty hemorrhages in the tissue in the back of his head underneath his scalp that could be from some sort of impact or may just be some congestion. He said that area was very congested and could be post mortem extravasation of blood, but it was very hard to tell. He will take a look microscopically. He said there was not any significant internal or intracranial injury that resulted from that. It could be from some positional or asphyxia, but not definitive at this time. He stated the most disconcerting is the previous incident of over lay, but he would like to look at previous EMS records and DCS reports. I asked Dr. [redacted] about the large swelling on his forehead we observed and he stated he did not notice it during the autopsy. He said he believes it congestion or possibly the way he was laying and believes fluid may have shifted post mortem. He said when they reflected the scalp, they did not see any hemorrhage. He stated nothing at this time shows obviously criminal activity, but he is waiting on toxicology and that may change things. He stated based on the preliminary autopsy findings, there is nothing concerning, but will update us. I told Dr. [redacted] I would get him the SUIDI form and previous reports he requested.
